Venus conjuncts Saturn and sprinkles sugar on our hard won successes. Blending a little sweetness into every grueling task will not only make the load lighter, it may even get us a helping hand. So get a little touchy feely.

ARIES (MARCH 21 - APRIL 20)

Burn that midnight oil with verve, gay Ram. You not only get along better with any lazy and disdainful co-workers, you also light a match under them to pitch in and help you. Maybe when the task is done you will hot foot it out of your current employ.

TAURUS (APRIL 21 - MAY 21)

Queer Bulls can do no wrong in whatever cheap sideline amusement they choose. But just because it is a light bite out of your life, don't give it short shrift. Take it seriously; seek genius and inspiration. Go for the best and the best will go for you.

GEMINI (MAY 22 - JUNE 21)

Difficulties with home and family take a turn for the better. No matter how intense the pressure, pink Twins need to do what they need to do for themselves and not for the approval of others. Eventually you will be accepted. If not, so what?

CANCER (JUNE 22 - JULY 23)

Venus conjunct Saturn encourages you to come out of your shell. Gay Crabs are more diplomatic than usual and have astute observations. Hurry and thrust your particular point into the public discourse before you become dull and tired. Ah, typical.

LEO (JULY 24 - AUG. 23) Venus pushes Saturn into a roaring pay-off. Hard work is rewarded! Uh oh, you think. And yet, even those who have slid by on their oily charm can expect to see a small market uptick in their personal stock. The thing is, are you selling an odd lot?

VIRGO (AUG. 24 - SEPT. 23) Queer Virgins are often too conservative for their own good which can lead them into taking the safe action that rarely catapults them over the top. Take a risk, envision the big prize and go for it. How big is big? Much bigger than you think!

LIBRA (SEPT. 24 - OCT. 23) Now, as Venus conjuncts Saturn not only can you divine the intentions of others, you may even get a chance to coax some secrets from the most unlikely sources. Use it to your advantage. Goodness knows you rarely have the opportunity to.

SCORPIO (OCT. 24 - NOV. 22) Not only can you join any social group you desire, they might actually seek you out. Enjoy the camaraderie while it lasts. Too, too soon your star fades and you go back to being the power behind the throne. And we know what throne that is.

SAGITTARIUS (NOV. 23 - DEC. 22) Big mouths such as yourself have spread their kvetchy opinions like so much compost on their corporate landscape. What green thing will begin to sprout from your soil? Thankfully all is forgiven gay Archer. Don't redeem that pink slip just yet.

CAPRICORN (DEC. 23 - JAN. 20)

Venus conjuncts Saturn and pushes you into action in a dramatic compelling way. No matter where you travel and who you meet you become a diplomat who can bring warring factions to the peace table. Don't waste this energy on trifles... as per usual.

AQUARIUS (JAN. 21 - FEB. 19) Who revved up your engines and pushed you out into the freeway of love? Aqueerians are rough and ready for action. Don't waste time waiting for a lull to make your big move. Forge ahead before your flower fades... and droops. Oops.

PISCES (FEB. 20 - MARCH 20) Dull relationships get a bit of spice added to the mix. Not only can Guppies find the ones they want, they can mold them to their exacting specifications. And they will even seem grateful for your attention. Hey, how great (and unusual) is that?

is that when you get involved in a relationship, you also get in a relationship with your new girlfriend's friends. This can prove to be a strain on the relationship. Let's use my current Lady Friend as an example. My Lady Friend's mother died when she was quite young and her motherless upbringing has made her an easy target for older, domineering women who want to run her life. There is Melody, a Joni Mitchell look-alike who wears flowing caftans and is on a first-name basis with her homeopath. Melody sends daily emails demanding that my Lady Friend try a new herbal supplement or cut down on dairy. Then there's was the leader of my Lady Friend's knitting circle—Christa, an imposing woman with a blonde pompadour, who once invited me to a private lunch at her home, where I endured several painful hours of questioning about my romantic history. I left the luncheon confident that I had failed to meet Christa's rigorous standards, which my Lady Friend later confirmed. "She says that you are flighty and that you don't know the proper way to hold a fork," my Lady Friend reported

And, of course, there is Nadia, the nuclear chemist. When I first met Nadia, I suspected that she was at least slightly mad—possibly the result of spending too much time around radioactive chemicals. Nadia dotes on my Lady Friend in a distracted, haphazard manner. She forgets her birthday, yet she'll call in the middle of the night to warn her to dress for severe weather the following morning.

On Sundays, we attend brunch at the mansion Nadia and her husband, Bernard, bought with money Bernard received from one of his inventions. Bernard's inventions have no practical applications in the real world. Rather, they are complex equations meant to manipulate tiny fragments of space. Bernard tried to explain them to me once but it was as hopeless as attempting to describe the concept of color to a blind person. Once, when I was on the verge of comprehending a particular aspect of Bernard's theory on the continuum of deformable bodies, I felt my soul slipping from my body and I feared I was being sucked into a quantum netherworld ruled by odd little quarks and leptons. That was the last time I asked Bernard about his work.

Nadia presides over brunch as the madcapped mistress of ceremonies. She sweeps through the house in one of the crisp field general-like suits she favors, sprinkling confusing non-sequiturs into the conversation, and ordering her guests to try the Wackadoodle, a dessert of her own creation that I am at a loss to describe.

Occasionally she puts us to work, demanding that we vacuum a bedroom or paint the garage. She cites high-minded Socialist principles when sending us off to our chores, claiming that the only way to get to know people is by working beside them. But I suspect she's simply too stingy to hire laborers to do the work.

Yesterday, after a particularly exhausting brunch at Nadia's home, my Lady Friend and I got into an argument over whose friends are more impossible. She finally conceded that my friends—or, as my Lady Friend likes to refer to them, "that bunch of drunks you call friends"—are easier to take because, although they may pass out on our floor on occasion, they would never make us clean their gutters or eat anything called Wakadoodle.

Hey! I wrote a book. It's a novel called Dateland. In the words of the great showman Mike Todd, "It ain't Shakespeare, but it's Laffs." You can buy it at Unabridged Books and on Amazon.

STRAP THIS ON

seems to be OK; it was a false appendicitis alarm. My care was decent, but I kept thinking that if the hospital had been run by the LGBT community, how much better my visit would have been. I got absolutely no sleep, and if the chair that pulled out into a bed for Robin had been made of concrete, it would have been more comfortable. (Oh, yeah, send any well wishes in the form of gift cards or tell me what bar to meet you at for a drink.) If you absolutely must send a bottle of wine, email me, and I'll send you the address. So Strap This On for the Health Care Industry:

THE TOP TEN CHANGES LGBT FOLKS WOULD MAKE TO BETTER A HOSPITAL STAY

- 10) Décor: The Queer Eye guys or a lesbian decorator from one of those reality shows could make the choice of paintings, wall colors, drapes, and a design much more appealing to the eye. All shades of purple would work for me.
- 9) Clothing: I envision the gowns for the patients more like colorful kimonos and silky pajama pants and tops for the nurses and nursing assistants.

8) Food: There are so many fabulous lesbian and gay chefs that could make people actually feel as if they're not being punished for being sick. I can see choices of entrées from grilled chicken salad for lunch to a gourmet omelet with fresh vegetables for breakfast.

7) Entertainment: First off, I could use some music in the background that I actually want to listen to. How about a Broadway channel on the TV, or a lesbian/gay movie marathon and porn if I want. If I'm in an adult room with access to a private TV, let me choose whatever will relax me.

6) Environment: The rooms could be set up more like hotel spa rooms than dorm rooms; a whirlpool tub in the room sure would add a lot and someone in a French maid's outfit to draw my bath.

5) Accommodations: It would be so easy to just increase the thread count of the sheets and provide some soft flannel blankets and goose-down pillows. A little color wouldn't hurt either. The cots for the guests could easily be as comfortable or just make the beds queen size so they can sleep with you.

4) Personal Care: Personally, I could have used a drink before each test, and something else to distract me like a poster of Kate Winslet or Piper Perabo. Cookies and milk after the long exams and a sponge bath given by some scantily clad assistant wouldn't hurt, either.

3) Extras: There needs to be a full-time buff, half-naked masseur for the aftermath of the tests and tension they create.

2) Hospitality: For the guests, there needs to be a bar and an all night place to eat. For the patients, there needs to be all night room service delivered by women/men in hot pants.

1) Tests: If you are going to draw blood in the middle of the night, give me a vibrator or put on a movie or lean in a little closer and at least let your breasts accidentally brush up against me. In other words, distract me from the pain before you poke me.

A--, @ IS A ROSE

www.paulsmithfoundation.org/index.html

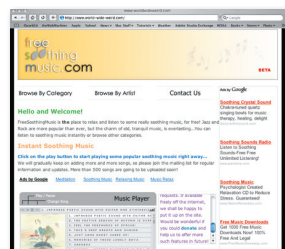

B4 you texters and chatters were typing "--,--,@" to represent a rose, Paul Smith was there with a typewriter, and the images he generated make your simple ASCII art look like shit. As you peruse the galleries keep in mind that though they may look like charcoal or pastel, everything in the images was typed on a manual typewriter. That's amazing enough, but consider this: Paul Smith had severe cerebral palsy. Paul passed away this June. I'm sure the Hallmark Channel is busy making a biopic as you read this.

ZOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

zoomquilt2.madmindworx.com/zoomquilt2.swf

Prepare to lose yourself in the sequel to the ZoomQuilt. It's called, appropriately enough, ZoomQuilt 2. Just like the first ZoomQuilt this SWF animation sends you tunneling into a picture. You keep zooming in, in an "if every atom is a galaxy, then I'm built of Universes" sort of way. The journey on this one is rather long before you zoom back to the the beginning. The zoom trip takes you through a freaky-deaky Heironymous Bosch meets Walt Disney and sits down for tea with George Lucas world. DO NOT WANT!

THE ELEVATOR WIDE WEB

www.freesoothingmusic.com

Somebody please take these people's bandwidth away pronto. FreeSoothingMusic offers Yawni inspired treacle to smooth away your tension (and sanity). With song titles like Take A Deep Breath and Unwind, Just Came Home? Cheer Up!, and Feel the Freshness of Spring, I wasn't sure whether I had stumbled into a fuzzy New Age support group or a Massengil commercial. All I know is I was very unhappy there wasn't an icepick lying around, so my eardrums could Feel the Pointiness of Steel.

I'M GONNA WASH THAT SNOT RIGHT OUTTA MY HEAD

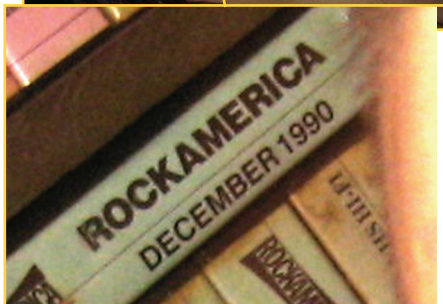

netipot.org

Amy Huffhines of Mansfield, Texas claims that the Neti Pot changed her life. I can see how. If every morning I was faced with getting up, shoving a teapot up my nose, and washing my sinuses with warm saline my life would change too. I'd rapidly lose the desire to ever get out of bed. Make sure you check out the demo video. Then head over to YouTube for some supplemental fun. Search for Neti Pot and Yogic Nasal Irritation, ummm, make that Irrigation. Suddenly candling seems down right sensible.

Judging a Porn By Its Cover

Cock Shots
by Studio 2000

G: Partially shaven. Trimmed but not all the way.

P: Not one-sided in this video; everyone gets a turn.

G: Nick Capra is into verbal. I like the stirrup chair now.

G: I don't like the lighting.

P: Not as good as the first scene.

G: There is no connection with these guys.

P: Hans looks like he is pain.

P: Oh, he's staring at him. Creepy...

G: He's so loud when he comes.

P: He's a screamer.

G: Licking off his own cum... now that's hot.

A heartbeat pounds in the background as a horny bald black man fantasizes about Dean Monroe.

P: They are kissing through a chain link fence.

G: And now he's getting a blowjob through it.

P: He can get scratched that way.

G: He's a sex pig. He doesn't worry about that stuff.

P: That dick's bouncing.

G: The leopard skin ottoman ruins it.

P: It's bad drag queen furniture. Check out Dean riding him.

G: He's got skills.

P: I can hardly wait to interview him.

Solo scene on the steps of a hallway.

G: Too twinkish.

P: He has a nice dick.

G: But this is kinda dull. I don't like solo scenes.

P: Playing with toys makes it fun.

G: Another solo scene after that one?

P: And another.

Last but not least, we have a four way on a bench at the end.

G: This is a fun multiethnic video.

P: People just having sex. I am everyday people.

G: Over two hours long. I like the bloopers too.

Pubert: I am interviewing Dean Monroe for next week's column.

Groeper: I considered buying this one, so I think I will like it.

G: This is weird.

P: Now I get it, they all jack off together in a group after the solo acts.

Two men are swapping head in a room somewhere.

A couple of buds have some fun.

P: What's with all the closeups?

G: And where are they? A gynecologist or urologist office?

P: Well, it has a stirrup chair.

G: Hot blowjob!

P: I like how he is kissing it.

G: Then they kiss each other.

P: He just said, "hot cocksucker man."

P: That's Hans Ebson.

G: Buddy Ebsen?

P: No, Hans Ebson. I interviewed him one time.

G: You should have everyone you interviewed in one video together.

P: Is that an unfinished tattoo he has? Is he working toward paying it off?

Pubert: Thumbs up the butt.

Groeper: Thumbs up the butt.

To purchase a copy of Cock Shots visit www.studio2000video.com. If you want to check out past articles go to www.windycitymedia-group.com and tell them "Pubert" sent you.

Stay tuned next week for the Dean Monroe interview!
