out in the stars

by Charlene Lichtenstein

Retro Saturn trines lucky Jupiter and flings us out of our apres holiday funk. No matter how stressful things become or how hopelessly they appear, it looks like there is a light at the end of the tunnel. Let's hope it's not the oncoming train.

LEO (JULY 24 - AUG. 23)
Proud Lions have been feeling exploited on the job. But there is hope as past efforts pay off. Reap the rewards and decide your next steps. If you have set your sights higher than your current level, stage a revolution. Well you can at least daydream.

thanks to Saturn trine Jupiter. Will you spend all your largess all in one large lump sum? Oh why not!

CAPRICORN (DEC. 23 - JAN. 20) Plan some travel to a far-away destination. Or, if money and time are tight, expand your base of operations close to home. You make a great first impression with important folks and appear to be serious and sensible. Oh do you have them fooled!

VIRGO (AUG. 24 - SEPT. 23)
Rewards are there for queer Virgins who put themselves Out front. You meet new, influential people and manage to travel in spheres of greater influence. Suddenly you find yourself rubbing elbows with the glitterati. Pack the oil ... err... balm.

AQUARIUS (JAN. 21 - FEB. 19) Secret admirers make themselves known and Aqueerians have quite a few of them. Will you be discerning or gorge on every bon bon. Whatever you do, c'est bon! Saturn trines Jupiter and expands your adoring fan base. No autographs please!

LIBRA (SEPT. 24 - OCT. 23)
The hidden motives of others become apparent. Not only do you divine ulterior machinations, you can make your intuition work on many other levels. There is nothing that you can't do once you put your mind to it. Okay, at very least put half a mind to it.

PISCES (FEB. 20 - MARCH 20) Saturn trines Jupiter and mixes and matches all the people in your life. Will you successfully turn something platonic into something passionate? I have no doubt, Guppies. But it will be with someone who you least expect. Keep your eyes open.

SCORPIO (OCT. 24 - NOV. 22)
Friends open up and reveal some interesting and advantageous information to you. Ah, but now you are also good at extracting secrets out of others. What will you do with all this juicy news? Will you use it for goodness or for nastiness. Uh oh.

SAGITTARIUS (NOV. 23 - DEC. 22) Gay Archers are chomping at the bit for more hay but the senior staff has been too slow and stingy. Something has changed Lichtenstein's "HerScopes: A Guide To Astrology For Lesbians" is an international sensation and has just "come out" in its 6th printing. Buy it and feel the vibration.

ARIES (MARCH 21 - APRIL 20) The powers that be begin to give you credit where credit is due. Saturn trines Jupiter and makes all your moves brilliant ones. At least they appear to be so this week. Proud Rams are ready to take the next step. Watch where you step however. Squoosh...

TAURUS (APRIL 21 - MAY 21)
Your creative genius is finally recognized and appreciated this week. Here it comes - fame and fortune! Is that what you have been working towards, queer Bull? Just watch out for the paparazzi and those extreme close-ups.

GEMINI (MAY 22 - JUNE 21)
Sometimes pink Twins can be all surface and no depth and that can impact love and family relationships. Saturn trine Jupiter opens your heart. Remember, no person is an island. Occasionally you have to toss out the life preserver.

CANCER (JUNE 22 - JULY 23) Relationships come into the forefront. Gay Crabs not only reach new levels of understanding, they are also surprised at the depth and expanse of affection. If you are in the market for a catch, go fishing. Who knew that you could be so lovable? Not I.

★ FROM TOP: ChicagoPride.com's Justin Boltz and the rest of the box of Twinkies at Martini Ranch's Polaroid Mondays; TeriYaki-flavored tip jar at Hydrate; Dcota at Cell Block

Could it be that Dcota Bear will soon be Dcota Otter? Yes, it's true. She's going all Richard Simmons on us with her new slim-down plan for 2008. Stop in to the Cell Block to tempt her with tasty cakes and pies. She's too strong to fall for your baked good buffoonery. Let's all wish him luck.

The shit this week was definitely the kickoff night of Polaroid Mondays at Martini Ranch, 311 W. Chicago Ave., brought to you by scene fixture Bobby Pins. In the world's ongoing and wildly successful attempts to make me feel as old as dirt (as old as dirt's grandmother, even... exit, stage right!) these kids got style I've only seen in the papers. And now, you'll see it in this paper. Thanks to everybody's favorite Hostess cream treat Justin Boltz for getting me jostled out of my Monday night exhaustion coma long enough to swing down. It was certainly worth the trip. And they'll take a surrtry picture of you, to boot.

Speaking of club scene royalty, stop in to Gallery 203 this Friday night to see the grand opening of "Getting Into Face," the stunning new photo show by Bernard "Frank Swank" Colbert, featuring the making-up of Chicago's own JoJo Baby and Sal-E. Don't they make a purty cover? Turn to page 14 for the full monty.

Hope you liked that maddeningly high-fashion shot of TeriYaki on the inside back of last week's issue. They liked it so much at Hydrate it was taped to the coat check tip jar.

Perhaps a portion of the proceeds will go to get Teri that chocolate cake she's been so desperately craving. And the bitch likes EXTRA fudge.

A big boo (with love) to one local queer rocker who declined to be photographed for this week's issue at Spin. He was dressed as a priest, complete with crucifix, and hanging out with his girls from the nunnery. I got the nuns but "none" of him. Oh, well. We'll always have Grinder!

Which reminds me of a terrible joke:

Q: What kind of meat do priests eat on Friday?

A: Nun.

I guess "chicken" would have also worked, but that wouldn't be confined to Friday's feast.

Speaking of bad jokes, and by bad I mean awesome, stop in to Sofo and get Ron to tell you the whale joke. If he can manage to get through it without melting into laughter himself.

Also at Spin I ran into a superfun group of kids who appeared on the cover last year, featured at Mary's Attic. They were as raucous as ever. Missing was the cute bearded boy with the pit stains. What can I say, I like 'em sweaty. Ahh, the smell of it...

Thanks to all of you who have given me kudos on the redesign of the mag. We aim to please.

Owing to the unfortunate and ongoing strike by the writers of TV, film and karaoke advertisement idea men, this ad space, which would normally be filled with some nugget of satire, snark or otherwise thought-provoking fodder, regrets to inform you, dear readers of Nightspots Magazine (part of Windy City Media Group) that Creaoke has nothing to impart to your brains this week, which is the direct, woeful and inarguable consequence of years and years of abhorrent mistreatment of karaoke advertisement idea men by the ever-expanding karaoke industry, whose shifting focus has seemingly prioritized profit over artistic integrity, the very cornerstone of a free and just society, in which men can breathe free the sweet, sweet air of altruistic endeavor and bolster the heart and soul of mankind, without which we, as a species are reduced to no more than the crudest of all apes, scratching our hirsute knuckles along the rocky ground.

Boy, some writers could REALLY punch this up.

Yesterday: better known as the "in case you missed it" column

January is a notoriously slow month if you work in the music industry. So, let's start with a couple "in case you missed it" moments.

There is a great You Tube cover of "Gimme More", by Marie Digby. Apparently a week can't go by without a Britney related blurb in my column...

What, that was not the pop music that is currently getting you weak in the knees? Well then you must be searching everywhere for the Spice Girls greatest hits collection. Get the four-disc version on Amazon.co.uk/ for what converts to about $60. It's been out in the UK since November. Perfect Beat can take their $100 price tag, and [comment not fit for print]!

Pop is still the word of the day. The pop appeal of CSS album "Cansei De Ser Sexy", and more importantly the guilty pleasure that is the song "Alcohol," would not have come to light without a commercial that featured their song "Music Is My Hot, Hot Sex." To think, the album sneaked unnoticed on to store shelves in mid-2006!

All that pop music has my blood running fast! Better tell you about the great dance tracks that are out. Cascada's new album is not out in the US, but if you head over to <http://www.robbinsent.com/> you can pick up the 13-track CD single to the enchanting "What Hurts the Most."

I gotta leave you with an update on Janet's comeback single "Feedback". Well, the remixes are making the rounds now and it's all about the mammoth DJ Alexander & Mark VDH Mix. It is anthem from stem to stern and is comparable to Raphi Rosario in peak form.

giving good face

Local photographer Bernard Colbert talks about his new show "Getting Into Face," which chronicles the creative process of two of Chicago's most popular faces, JoJo Baby and Sal-E.

Getting Into Face grew from my experience of living and working in the Wicker Park/ Bucktown neighborhood.

I go out a lot. I love the nightlife. I have always noticed and appreciated the way bartenders, musicians, DJs, hairstylists, photographers—basically, service industry people, visual artists and performers of all types, mingle with each other, entertain each other, support and inspire each other. I call this interaction "crossover" and it is what inspired me to begin shooting JoJo and Sal-E.

JoJo is my good friend and neighbor. In 2005 JoJo hooked me up with his employer (at the time) Milio, of Milio's Salon. I shot their advertising monthly until Milio sold the business. The Milio images were the precursor to the 'Getting Into Face' project. I got to create advertising images which were unique. We shot concepts such as 80s rock, Goth, Punk, winged fairies, body painting and Asian themes. We played with ideas of sexuality. There was always an element of humor.

My friends and I were brainstorming about my next logical step for creativity and career. We were joking around about following JoJo with cameras in public and pretending to be paparazzi. The suggestion came up that I should get a '40s period press photographer's costume and go around under the alias of 'Frank Swank' (in homage to the beloved and now lost hot dog stand 'Swank Frank'.) The concept also conjures the 'famous' Wee Gee and local photographer 'Phil Flash.'

Then and there I decided to invent the persona 'Frank Swank', a pretentious and artsy nightlife photographer. I pledged to document local celebrities in my own style, with my particular commentary on pop culture.

Collaborating with JoJo and Sal-E was the logical first assignment for 'Frank Swank.'

Getting Into Face is true collaboration. There is no way to overestimate what JoJo and Sal-E bring to the camera. They bring expert skill in make-up and costuming, concepts, planning and acting ability. The artistry of JoJo and Sal-E rival anything I have ever seen in Chicago. I would compare them to Cirque du Soleil and Red Moon Theatre. I can only take credit for what I do with lighting, setting, composition and angles. I suppose I can also take credit for choosing such wonderful muses.

Divas JoJo and Sal are pretentious and catty characters about town. One on one, I know them to be two of the most gentle and genuine people I have ever met.

-Bernard Colbert (AKA Frank Swank)

Catch Bernard and company at the opening reception this Friday, January 18 from 6-10 p.m. at Gallery 203 in the Flat Iron Building, 1579 N. Milwaukee Ave., suite #203.

Saving Zack and Henry

Dateland
by Jennifer Parelo

It was like something out of a Lillian Hellman drama. Our friend Karen slipped into a coma and her greedy, ruthless relatives immediately began hunting for her will and itching to take her off life support.

They tore through her homes, snatching up valuables and bickering over small appliances. They made impatient visits to the hospital and badgered Karen's doctors to pull the plug.

In the meantime, Karen's two dogs, Zack and Henry, waited for Karen to return to her winter home in Florida. They had been living there alone since Karen went into the hospital a month before. The lesbian couple who lived next door came over every day to feed, walk, and play with the dogs. Karen's relatives came to the Florida house only once—to raid it for televisions and jewelry. They took everything in the house except for Zack and Henry. All day long, the dogs would stand faithfully at the window, waiting for their beloved mistress's return.

Karen was a lesbian, but not a very successful one. She had been in a few relationships, but they all failed. Her biggest problem was that she dithered. If she met a woman she was attracted to, she'd spend weeks fretting about what outfit she'd wear on a first date. By the time she finally was ready to make her move, the object of her affection inevitably had met someone else.

Karen was a bit of a nutcase. She was late to every party, but never failed to bring a beautifully made salad. (She hated iceberg lettuce and would complain bitterly if it was served at a restaurant.) She had a tendency to overstay welcomes, blurt out inappropriate comments during sensitive conversations, and talk incessantly about imagined health problems. She'd often start a conversation by saying, "I think I have a brain tumor," which would be dismissed with communal eye rolling and laughter. (The greatest irony was that Karen, a true hypochondriac who had a stable of doctors at her beck and call died suddenly after a short illness without knowing that her body was riddled with cancer.)

She was a pain-in-the-ass. But we loved her anyway, because she knew how to laugh at herself (and would be the first to chuckle in agreement with everything I wrote above), and because she was a friend to all animals—especially dogs. She adored her dogs, and her life centered on their care and comfort. That's why when she died, her lesbian friends frantically planned to rescue Zack and Henry because we were certain the heartless relatives would dump them in a shelter.

In a strategy orchestrated with the precision of D-Day, Karen's lesbian neighbors drove Zack and Henry 600 miles to Chattanooga, where they rendezvoused with my friends Karen and Bernadette, a foul-mouthed Hungarian with a heart of gold. They drove the dogs to the Michigan home of Darlene and Cynthia, Karen's first lover and closest friend. From there, I took Henry to a home I found for him in Illinois and a couple from Milwaukee drove down to claim Zack.

I've often used this column to poke gentle fun at lesbians, because, let's face it, lesbians are easy to make fun of. But nothing has made me prouder to call myself a lesbian than in the days following Karen's death, when her biological family deserted her and her lesbian family stepped in and honored her life by making sure her boys were placed in safe, loving homes.

Hey! I'll be signing my novel, Dateland, at Women and Children First on Friday, Feb. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

The Rapex is a female condom designed to deter rape and to help identify a rapist if a rape were to occur. So what is the Rapex? It's a female condom—with teeth. Well, barbs actually, but you get the idea. The condom is lined with inward pointing barbs that hook that the penis can push past on the instroke, but grab hold on the out stroke. And I mean grab hold. It cannot be removed easily, forcing the rapist the seek a doctor. Makes me think of the new movie Teeth.

Dare

from Falcon Studios
starring Matthew Rush

JUDGING A PORN BY ITS COVER

Pubert: It says "a car... a journey... a madman..."; what does that mean?

Groeper: The cover only shows one of the guys naked. They blurred out the other star. He must not be hung...

Pubert: How DARE you!

Two men are talking in a field and one kills the other one. Afterwards, a hitchhiker plays truth or dare with a Good Samaritan. They all three meet at a diner in the desert.

P: This movie is full of plot.

G: Their waiter just went in the storage room with the cook.

P: The cook doesn't have much of a butt.

G: Neither do you, haha.

P: The waiter is working up a sweat. I bet he gets a big tip.

G: They seem a little bored.

P: Well, they work everyday together so it makes sense to me.

G: You were wrong; the waiter is giving him the tip.

P: What a big switcheroo.

G: He's getting fucked over the sugar flakes.

P: That chair would not be comfortable at all.

G: There is some hot kissing,

P: And the noises he's making, like an animal in heat. That backroom is a steam room!

G: Look at all that cum.

P: It was both of them shooting on his stomach, so looks like a lot

The next scene has our killer murdering the pair in the back. After that gruesome scenario, our trio camps out in the middle of the Mojave. At a local gas station two men hook up in the bathroom.

P: Here cums Superman! I never forget who he is with that tattoo.

G: Seems like an odd pairing.

P: Those walls are filthy.

G: The old over-the-sink fuck.

P: Isn't that so 2007?

G: Wait a minute. He's banging him over a trashcan. That's definitely 2008.

P: Yeah, but looks like a pain.

G: A pain the ass, right? The wastebasket can be flipped over and used as a table for more action.

P: That's making use of your surroundings.

G: He's getting a fill up at the gas station!

P: I think he just rotated his tires.

G: And checked the oil with his dipstick.

P: His jizz was watery like oil all right.

Our madman overdoses in the bathroom and our journey continues.

P: This movie is long.

G: I am going to sleep.

P: Not yet. One of them just almost got gang banged by Matthew Rush.

G: He's not aging well. Too much fun in the sun.

P: I don't like him growing out his hair.

G: The group is hot and the setting hotter.

P: I wonder if this was filmed on location.

G: Wow, Matthew is a screamer.

Finally, our couple gets some alone time in a hotel.

P: I guess they decided to splurge and rent a room for the night.

G: It's a step up from sleeping in a field.

P: This flick just got all romantic.

G: Such a sweet ending.

P: This video is only good if you have a lot of time to kill.

G: Some good scenes but it's on the long side.

P: I DARE you to watch all 126 minutes!

Pubert: Thumbs down the throat.

Groeper: Thumbs up the butt.
